

Rickshaw rides, Durban

South Africa's cosmopolitan playground boasts spectacular golden beaches, year-round sunshine, never-ending activities and fun, not to mention a variety of activities and sights.

Just 20 minutes drive to the north lies Umhlanga, playground of the jetset, boasting a wondrous promenade, pavement cafes and laidback vibe.

Durban's port is Africa's busiest, as is abundantly clear if you visit one of the restaurants and pubs perched right on the waters edge at the harbour entrance - a constant stream of huge container ships and industrious tugs pass by, tantalisingly close. At the end of Durban's Golden Mile is the beginning of a new world of fun, entertainment and excitement. uShaka Marine World, spanning over 15 hectares of prime beach front, is Africa's largest Marine Theme Park.

Durban and its surrounding suburbs are blessed with incredible restaurants, from the Colonial fine dining experience of The Royal Grill to the cool, funky fare of Bean Bag Bohemia in Morningside and dozens of indoor and outdoor bistros. Get spicy at the vibrant Victoria Market, a treasure house of Indian wares, curios and food.

Also worth a visit is the Valley of a Thousand Hills. Just 45-minutes drive west from the city centre, it has magnificent views, a Zulu village and large craft market. Head a bit further west and you're on the Midlands Meander - an established, excellent arts and crafts route offering glorious accommodation and excellent wares amid beautiful scenery.

Drakensberg scenic view

Continue on that route and you'll reach the mighty Drakensberg Mountain range. Recently proclaimed a World Heritage Site, it is a must see, with its superb examples of Bushmen paintings, soul-feeding vistas, mountain walks and ample accommodation, from campsites to luxury hotels.

A couple of hours' drive to the north lies big game country - some of the country's best game reserves are found here - and to the west the sites of several historic battles between Boer, Brit and Zulu can be discovered.
